

Excitement is building across Australia as the NDIS New World Conference: Disability in the 21st Century draws closer.

Join us to explore opportunities, share experiences and learn about the technological innovations with the potential to transform the disability sector.

Participants:

“It’s an opportunity to engage, learn and influence the solutions that will help me achieve my goals. Access to the experts from around the world who are influencing the changes taking place means that I can increase my knowledge to live the life I choose.”

Service Providers:

“Engaging with other providers will enable collaborations as we transition to Full Scheme and help us deliver great products and services that support people with a disability; we’re completely focused on service excellence and have seen new horizons and opportunities to be lean, scalable, contemporary and access innovative digital technologies. In addition to sessions, we will check out NDIS partners, technology demos run by the experts who helped build the products, and get hands on discussions where we can dig into the details.

It’s about connections and embracing the transformation of our business requirements.”

Vendors:

“For us this conference is an essential investment that will pay for itself and then some. This is my opportunity to engage with participants, providers, vendors and the NDIA to discover new product and technology solutions, improve technical proficiency and gain essential insights about where the industry is headed.”

NDIA:

“In facilitating NDIS New World Conference: Disability in the 21st Century, the NDIA has pulled together key drivers for success in the transition to Full Scheme. It’s a reflection of our commitment to support initiatives that build capacity and capability of participants, suppliers, and the NDIA to engage, manage and support its evolution over time.”

The NDIA is committed to the Scheme’s vision: “to optimise social and economic independence and full Participation for people with disability.”

Community:

“We understand that the NDIA is committed to the Scheme’s vision: to “optimize social and economic independence and full participation for people with disability”. We have confidence in what the NDIS means for participants of the Scheme and the broader community.
